

What is the price of a factory electrical distribution box

Article Overview

A factory electrical distribution box typically costs between $500 and $5,000 or more, depending on capacity, materials, and features.

Cost Range and Factors

The price of a distribution box varies widely based on size, amperage, material, and internal components. Basic small plastic units may cost a few hundred dollars, while industrial-grade stainless steel boxes with high-capacity breakers, surge protection, and modular designs can reach several thousand dollars, sometimes comparable to the cost of a compact car for premium models . Typical industrial boxes often fall in the $1,000–$5,000 range, with higher-end smart systems costing more due to monitoring and automation features . Key factors influencing cost include:

- Load capacity: Measured in amperes; higher amperage panels cost more .
- Number of circuits: More circuits require additional breakers and busbars, increasing price .
- Material quality: Options range from ABS plastic to powder-coated steel or 304 stainless steel, with stainless steel being the most durable and expensive .
- Internal components: Empty enclosures are cheaper; adding high-quality breakers, surge protectors, and busbars increases cost .
- Smart features: Modern units with remote monitoring, energy optimization, and automated load shedding can double the upfront cost but offer long-term savings .
- Compliance and safety certifications: UL, CE, or CCC certifications may affect price...
